Intended Audience

This course is appropriate for all practicing maxillofacial and craniofacial surgeons, plastic and reconstructive surgeons, and other physicians interested in a greater understanding of advanced maxillofacial principles and techniques.

Overview

This course is a two-day program consisting of lectures and hands-on laboratory sessions.

The purpose of this course is to offer a unique opportunity for Surgeons to learn from various masters, with the emphases on lectures that emphasize the salient points of various surgical procedures, and then allowing a 'hands on' experience to perform these procedures using fresh cadaver heads.

Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this activity, participants will be able to:

- Perform an advancement genioplasty.
- Understand the indications of correcting facial deformities with orthognathic procedures.
- Identify the indications for performing a safe malar augmentation
- Understand the appropriate use and placement of porous polyethylene and other facial implants for facial augmentation.
- Improve outcomes for blepharoplasty
